VISION

MODSIM World will become the premier international conference and exposition for collaboration and transfer of M&S knowledge, new research, development, and applied technology across all public and private sectors.

MISSION

- Promote the initiation, development, and research of M&S among all organizations internationally.
- Share the latest technical expertise, knowledge, applications, and capabilities of M&S technology by academia, industry, and government.
- Promote cooperation among academia, industry, and government, applying M&S technology to help organizations anticipate and prepare for the future.
- Improve M&S technology to reduce its implementation costs by academia, industry, and government.
- Support planning, decision-making, and real-time operations management with state-of-the-art computer software and development expertise utilizing M&S.
- To foster the transfer of leading-edge M&S technology and knowledge from the military community to the medical, transportation, homeland security, and other relevant communities.

WHY NORFOLK?

How big is the M&S industry in the U.S. and, more importantly, how big is it inside the Norfolk and entire Hampton Roads area?

While military commands have been the primary M&S customers, private sector firms have been the chief developers and providers of M&S technology. The Virginia Economic Development Partnership (VEDP) estimates that Virginia's M&S industry employs 11,300 people in the private sector and about 2,800 in the government and military, with 4,800 of those employees located in the Hampton Roads area. Over half the M&S companies in Virginia are located in the Hampton Roads area, with an economic impact of $1.7 billion annually.

In June 2007, the U.S. House of Representatives approved House Resolution 487, which identified M&S as a National Critical Technology. This resolution was a result of the work of the M&S Congressional Caucus, which is now led by Congressman Bobby Scott, Virginia 3rd District. The resolution establishes that M&S is important to national security; there is little doubt that a variety of powerful private and public organizations located in the Hampton Roads area are interested in the M&S field, not the least because it is seen as important to future progress. An interesting item to note is that, in the U.S. alone, business firms, state and local governments, universities, medical schools, and non-profit organizations may spend as much as $25 billion annually on M&S activities.
